MR. WISE GIVES HIS VERSION.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT OF HIS DISPUTE WITH A. B. BOARDMAN.

Relative to the encounter with A. B. Boardman in the County Court House on Friday, John S. Wise yesterday made a statement, part of which the Court prevents me from resenting this," I added, "but self-respect compels me to say this form of proceeding is both blackguard ungentlemanly." Then the Court rapped and that this form of proceeding is both blackguard and ungentlemanly. Then the Court rapped and rebuked us both.

Mr. Boardman arose and said: "Your Honor, I acknowledge I was in error and apologize to the Court." The words to the Court were so pointedly uttered nobody could doubt he did not intend to apologize to me. I resumed my summing up. Now I submit that in twenty-eight years of practice I never was subjected to such rudeness. I have quoted the language used, and the mainer was, if possible, more arrogant and offensive. The jury retired and I went into the hall with my son. Mr. Boardman came out and approached me, extending his hand, saying: "Wise, you know the fact you stated was not so." I withdrew my hand and said: "I will not take your hand until you applogize to me."

He then bridled up and said: "Oh; very well; I den't intend to apologize," and I said: "Teen you are a flar, a coward and a puppy." He said: "That's your Southern blood." I replied: "You would not have dared to use that language in a place where my hands were untied and I could have slapped you in the face." He then said: "Why don't you slap me." At this point my son stepped between us. Of course if I had slapped Mr. Boardman we should have been as much in contempt as if it had been in the courtroom proper. While Mr. Boardman seems to have been measuring my height and grit in contemplation of a 24 foot ring performance, he did not know that I was trembling with apprehension lest a youngster, who could whip both of us, was standing at my side, and likely to avoid restraint and pluch in peld-mell. It is totally untrue that I used any language about hearing from me again. I am neither puglist nor duellist, and have not the slightest idea of pursuing the matter further.

[BY TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE.]

West Point, June 8.-This has been a banner year for West Point. The large number of visitors ar-riving by every train and boat attests the keen inbryo officers have shown their mettle, and they deserved all the applause they have received. The class of '95 is not large, but what it lacks in numbers it makes up in quality. A better drilled or finer looking let of young men could hardly be found anywhere else in the world. Nature, too, seems to smile on the gray-coated young soldiers. The scorching days preceding examinations have given way to weather tempered with cooling blasts. The light breezes waft from the rugged mountainsides the fragrance of the wild honeysuckle, and a thousand different flowers scent the air with their

Part of the first class went before a medical board for physical examination this morning. Colonel Alden, Major Torney and Colonel Eddle composed the Board. Each cadet was subjected to a rigid examination, and notes were made of every weak point. When the examinations are concluded these notes will be compared with those made when the lads entered as "plebes," and then it will be known how much they have improved since entering the academy. The Board of Visitors occupied their usual place at the tent, near the middle of the drill grounds. The battery went through several evolutions. Guns were limbered and undimbered, and marches and countermarches were made. The exciting part began when Lieutenant Dyer gave the command, "Front into line, march," and the battery came thundering down the plain, enveloped in clouds of dust. Near the end of the driliground the command to halt rang out, and the whose line stopped. The guns were unlimbered, and soon the order was given to prepare the battery for firing. Then came the command "Fire by numbers," and as each number was called a sheet of lame leaved forth and the mountains shook with the booming of the guns. Another galley up the plain gave time for the smoke to clear away, and a little later the firing by battery took place. The ground trembled as the shot leaped from a score of cannon. The spectators held their hands to their ears, and the grim old warriors of the Beard of Vistors smilled as the artillery rattled and restred. The battery charged front and rear and blazed away until the ammunition was expansived. Lieutenant Dyer was complimented by the visitors on the able manner in which he handled his battery. AN APPEAL TO GOVERNOR MORTON.

THE COMMITTEE ON TEMPERANCE INSTRUCTION ASK HIM TO SIGN THE AINSWORTH BILL. The following open letter has been addressed to Governor Morton by the Rev. Dr. John Hall, the Rev. Charles L. Thompson and the Rev. Albert F. Newton, representing the New-York State Central Committee for Scientic Temperance Instruction in public schools:

New-York, June 7, 1895.

To His Excellency, Governor Levi F. Morton.
Dear Sir: Our attention is called to the lact that in a special letter from Albany, Mr. Charles R. Skinner has published through the papers a few more letters against the Ainsworth Temperance Education Bill. These, like other letters of the same import, are confessed y in response to that misleading creular against this bill with which Mr. Skinner has been trying to rouse the only opposition that has appeared against it.

We cannot believe that the authors of these letters, just published, are informed as to the origin of this bill, or in christian couriesy, they would not have characterized it as "born of fanalicism," inspired by cranks, "faddists" and evoluthe reformer." This bull had its incept on in the recommendation, State and National of four great religious denominations, viz. The General Association of Congregationalists of New-York, the Presbyterians in General Association of Congregationalists and Methodists. These, with representatives of other churches and alicel organizations, are the sponsors for this bill. We submit that this great body of people, whom we have the honor to represent in this matter, are not to be dissounced as "crarks," families, "faddists" or "would-be reformer.

and prove it, on any topic taught in these books, or shall be able to prove inaccurate the finilings of other eminent, original investigators, and point out the pair and paragraph in these books where such inaccuracies occur, we will urke immediate revision, but until they do that good morals demand that we stand by the truth as far as ascertained and vouched for by good authorities. These textbooks in use in the schools in this country are forming the standard for similar school literature for the world. They have aircaly been translated into the languages of six foreign countries, where they are in school use. The provisions of the proposed law in requiring textbooks are identical with those enacted by Congress for all schools under Federal control, and signed by President Grover Cleveland in 1886, who signed the present Temperance Education law of this State when he was Governor in 1884.

As a committee we are unable to understand why Mr. Skinner, who is employed by the people to superintend the enforcement of their school laws, should attempt to thwart the popular will expressed by the unanimous passaxe of this Ainsworth bill, which is petitioned for by hundreds of thousands of the most intelligent people in this State, who from actual knowledge of what their children are studying in school know that the proposed stronger law is needed.

We carnestly urge Your Excellency to heed this voice of the people, the law-making power in this State, rather than that of their servant, the Superintendent of Public Instruction, and the comparatively small educational following which he has been able to arouse, and others who, influenced by him, have echoed his unjust criticisms.

We appeal to you to sign this bill because we believe it will help to avert the evils of intemperance which are blighting many lives and homes in our midst. Very respectfully.

Charles Hrabak, a Bohemian laborer, committed suicide in the hallway of No. 328 East Seventy-fifthst. yesterday afternoon, after attempting to murder Mary Vohlidka, who lives at No. 492 East Seventyourth-st. He shot himself in the breast and died instantly. The woman had refused to live with him. He threatened several times to murder her, and yesterday when she saw him draw a revolver she fled. Two bullets were sent after her, but only one struck her, doing little harm. Both the woman and Hrabak were married, but he was separated from his wife and she had parted from her husband. She worked as a cigar stripper in a factory in East Sixty-third-st. He went to the factory yesterday, and they walked together to Seventy-fifth-st. and Second-ave. There he suddenly haited and insisted that she give him a decisive answer. rightened and ran down Seventy-fifth-st., followed by Hrabak. When opposite No. 328 she dashed into hallway. Hrabak, who was close behind her, drew a revolver and fired. As the woman tried to close the door the bullet struck her in the left shoulder, glancing upward and hitting her ear. A second bullet flew over her head as she ran furthe town the hallway. Hrabak stood at the foot of the stairs and fired at himself.

The woman never stopped in her flight until she reached the roof. Policeman Thomas Reilly, of the East Sixty-seventh-st. station, heard the shooting and reached the house as Hrabak fell dead. He called an ambulance from the Presbyterian Hoscalled an ambulance surgeon dressed the wound in the woman's car. She then went to the East Sixty-seventh-st. station, where she told the story of the tragedy to Sergeant Hussey. The services of an interpreter had to be secured, for the woman does not speak a word of English, although she has been longer than eleven years in this country. She said that no intimate relations existed between her and the dead man, but that he repeatedly requested her to live with him, and had on several occasions threatened to kill her because she refused. The woman is not comely and by no means intelligent. Both she and Hrabak came from Bohemia. The heaty of the dead man was removed to the East Sixty-seventh-st, station, where it was examined by Jeputy Coroner O'Hanlon After making her explanation, the woman was allowed to go home. The shooting created great excitement in the house where it occurred, a tail tenement-house chiefly occupied by Bohemians. The man's body was searched at the station-house. All that was found upon it were several handry and pean tickets. The woman says that Hrabak was perfectly soher, but taiked to her as if he had decided upon something desperate. pital, and the ambulance surgeon dressed the wound

THE DIVIDED DEMOCRACY.

LEADERS OF THE PARTY PULLING AND HAULING ON BOTH SIDES OF THE SILVER QUESTION. Austin, Tex., June 8.-National Committeeman

terday he said:

I fall to appreciate the need or advantage of a National convention to consider the silver question. We can have no National political campaign or election before the summer and fall of next year, and the National Democratic organization will do nothing toward formulating questions or polling the yote thereon before it is necessary. The face of affairs may change between now and then. The cry for free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, regardless of all other considerations or what other people may do, will probably subside during the coming twelve months, and sober business thought will resume its sway among our people.

The Chicago platform pledged the Democratic party to the use of both gold and sliver as standard money, and to the colmage of both without discrimination. I am in sympathy with the Illinois Democrats in their effort to carry out this plank. If the ratio cannot be fixed by an international agreement, it should be done by legislation, as proposed by the platform. The obligation is upon us to act. The main question is free coinage. The ratio is a secondary matter. I shall continue to support any ratio that is regarded as safe and just by the majority in Congress. I have not considered the question of a convention.

Indianapolis, June 8.—The Executive Committee of the Democratic State Editorial Association yesterday issued a call for a meeting of the association at Maxinkuckee on June 27 and 28 to discuss the currency question. This step was taken after Chairman Taggart, of the State Committee, had de-clined to call a convention to discuss the subject.

Little Rock, Ark., June 8 (Special).—General Powell layten, the leader of Arkansas Republicans, said to-day: "I do not think there will be a split in the Republican National Convention, My reason for this belief is that the Republican party will do the right thing on the money question, as it has always done in the past on great public issues. all the allver necessary for the transaction of busi-ness, as much of it as can be safely issued and parity maintained. The Republican parity favors bimetallism—the use of both gold and silver. As to the standard, I do not believe a double standard practical. The most stable and the one by which all other values are measured is gold.

"In my opinion, there is enough money, but the trouble is to get it in circulation. Confidence must be restored, factories must be started, and the owners of money must have assurance that if they ers of money must have assurance that if they put out their money they can get back money equally as good. With the Republican party in control of the legislative and executive departments of the Government, these conditions will ensue. I think the greatest issue that will come before the people will be the tariff, and that Mc-Kinley is the logical Republican Presidential candidate."

A PHYSICIAN'S TESTIMONIAL.

when I was entirely cured and have remained so ever since. This I attribute entirely to the action of the Hrom-Lithia Water, as during its use I used no other form of treatment. Everything considered, I think this a most wonderful cure.

THE NEW POLICE BENCH.

JUSTICE ASSURED FOR THE POOR AND IG-

NORANT. From The New-York World. At last we have a new set of magistrates to take the place of the Divver-Koch crew. At last the poor people of New-York, and especially the ignorant foreigners within our gates, will come in contact with law in a way to impress them with the idea that law and justice mean something like the same thing in America. The abolition of the bench of police magistrates, constituted as it was, is the best work of reform yet accomplished.

THE OLD ORDER AND THE NEW. From The Utica Herald. The police justice under Tammany was a political heeler, a district leader, an illiterate, a divekeeperanything or any one but a man fit to sit in judgment on the offences of his fellows. The justices who will take their seats July 1 are men of high character and of good legal acquirements.

MAYOR STRONG'S HONESTY OF PURPOSE.

From The Brooklyn Eagle.

For having lifted the minor courts out of a corrupt and polluted atmosphere by appointing men of known integrity, Mayor Strong is entitled to hearty commendation. It is easy to say that he has done nothing more than his duty. That is true in one sense, but when one pauses to reflect that there were hundreds of applicants for the places, and that each candidate brought into play all the political "pull" at his command, something must be allowed for the intellectual honesty which prompted the appointments. From The Brooklyn Eagle.

RAISING THE STANDARD OF THE COURTS

In place of Tammany saloon men he (Mayor Strong) has put fourteen trained lawyers, some of whom have risen to distinction in their profession, and all of whom are fitted for the task imposed upon them. The people of the metropolis should be grateful to him for raising thus the standard of their local courts of law. From The Providence Journal,

A HEAVY TASK PERFORMED WITH CREDIT From The Boston Herald.

Mayor Strong, of New-York, appears to have discharged with credit the heavy responsibility placed upon him by the law authorizing him to appoint judges of the local courts of New-York to take the place of the discreditable occupants of the bench who are legislated out of office. MAKING NEW-YORK A MODEL CITY.

From The New-York Recorder.

In these appointments, as in all that have preceded them, the Mayor has raised the standard of public service and advanced the cause of good government. He is making New-York in all its departments a purer and better city—the model city, in fact, of the whole country.

ELECT PUBLIC-SPIRITED MEN TO THE MAY-ORALTY. From The Philadelphia Times. The Divvers and their associates will go out of office June 30, and there will be few to mourn their retirement. If the people of New-York want to be sure of the continuance of good magistrates in office they can do so by electing only men as competent and public-spirited as Mr. Strong for Mayor.
